

Scholarships for international Master's students in financial need

DAAD STIBET III Matching Funds

With its scholarship line STIBET III Matching Funds the German Academic Exchange Service (DAAD) with support from the Federal Foreign Office (Auswärtiges Amt) offers funds for scholarships to support international Master's students.

The DAAD grants these funds to match contributions raised by the University of Stuttgart itself from non-public foundations, companies etc. to support their international students.

The University of Stuttgart has decided to direct these Matching Funds scholarships towards international participants of the English Master's programs.

The purpose of these scholarships is to support students in financial need and award good academic performance.

The amount and duration of the Matching-Funds scholarship vary (250-850EUR/2-6 month) depending on the amount of available funds and will be determined by a selection committee of the International Office during the selection procedure.

Please note: There is no legal entitlement for a scholarship, nor a certain sum or duration. All submitted documents or any information provided may be considered in the selection process for the awarding of scholarships. Usually, candidates will be informed about the results of their application within 4 weeks after the application deadline by the International Office of the University of Stuttgart.
